A special meeting of Coleman school board was held on Friday evening. Present, Chairman George Evans, Trustees Bomben, Cornett, Holly and Wilkie.

All the married teachers who have been aiding the Board during the past several years in order to maintain a full staff will again be on hand when school opens.

A delegation of Polish citizens was present to prevail upon the Board to start night classes in English. It was stated that 40 persons would regularly attend these classes. Many Polish veterans have come into town and gained employment and they desire to learn the English language. The Board has sent a letter to Edmonton regarding the matter for special Edmonton agree to the night school it will also allow a provincial grant to conduct the classes.

Chairman Evans revealed that through the supervision of the Alberta Motor Association and the R.C.M.P. traffic patrols will be organized in the local schools this year. The patrols will be organized immediately upon the re-organization of school classes.

The Central and Cameron school roofs are being insulated, the work having already commenced.

COLEMAN HARDWARE SOON TO OCCUPY NEW BUILDING

Last Saturday Coleman Hardware's new building advanced to the stage where it completely enveloped the temporary building which had housed proprietor Dutil's stock since early spring.

Monday morning workers were busy hammering off the boards of the temporary building thus giving customers a view of the spacious new quarters which the hardware is soon to occupy. Much work remains at the rear of the new building and also on the ceiling and it is expected that it will require another month before the new building can be classed as finished. In the meantime the temporary shelves and the limited quarters will be used until the walls and ceiling are stone-bored.

SETLA AND KIVINSKY BUY CLAES TAXI SERVICE

COLEMAN FISH & GAME ASSOCIATION SEEKS ASSISTANCE OF MEMBERSHIP

A dozen members of Coleman Fish & Game Association worked all day Sunday and made a good start in reclaiming an old creek on a tributary of Allison Creek. Plans are being made to have the lake formed by this dam.

Much of this job still remains to be done and it is hoped that a larger turn-out of members will be forthcoming next Sunday when the work will be continued.

Make it a point to attend the next meeting (date to be announced) of the Association and secure further information on this project. — COLEMAN FISH & GAME ASSOCIATION.

Combines Bounce Cubs Out Of Play-Offs

Cubs Fall Before Scores of 3-2 and 6-5 to Lose Series Three Games to One.

Coleman Cubs dropped two close decisions to Burdett-Bow Island Combines at the Bow Island diamond on Sunday and so dropped out of the provincial play-off picture. In the afternoon match Cubs were edged out 2-1 and in the evening tilt the Combines eked out a 6-5 win to capture the best of five series three games to one.

Both games were played before large crowds and both clubs treated the spectators with thrilling displays of baseball which kept the final result in doubt until the last put-out.

The Cubs, in bowing out of the play-offs, ably represented the C.N.P. and the series should act as a boost for future baseball in this district.

Attending the ball game at Bow Island on Sunday were Sam D'Amico, of Medicine Hat and Bill Bailloch, of Beaver, who were Coleman's most ardent boosters.

Modern Coffee Shop To Open Friday

Youngsters to be Treated to Double Decker Cakes As Opening Treat; Owned by Joe Lombardi.

Joe Lombardi, who has been working for months on renovating his new Modern Coffee Shop, announces that he expects to open the premises Friday evening or early Saturday morning.

He has fully modernized the interior of the premises in the main street block which he owns and has purchased new equipment. He plans on serving light lunches only and will not handle full course meals. In addition he will sell ice cream, soft drinks, confectionery and tobacco.

He has engaged the services of three local waitresses and plans on opening his shop at 11 a.m. each day and remaining open until 2 a.m. the following day.

In order to advertise his new Coffee Shop he will give all youngsters under twelve years a double decker ice cream cone for 5 cents on the opening day. He remarked to The Journal that should he open on Friday evening the double decker bargain will prevail during the hours of Friday evening; should he open on Saturday morning the bargain will hold throughout the day.

On-To-Nelson Caravan To Stop In Coleman; Visitors To Get Close-Up View Of Mining Industry

Coleman Board of Trade to be Hosts During Half Hour Stop Over; Hon. James Gardiner M.P. to be Principal Speaker at Convention in Nelson

Wednesday, September 8, will mark a milestone in the history of the Crows Nest Pass for it will be on that day that the motorists in this area, through their Boards of Trade, will welcome the On-to-Nelson Caravan and will give the caravan's personnel both moral and physical support in their efforts to focus the attention of Federal and provincial governments of the four western provinces on the real necessity of constructing a modern Trans-Canada highway through the southern parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

The caravan will start at Brandon, Manitoba, on Sept. 6 and wend its way westward, gaining in momentum as other cars along the route join the caravan. It will arrive in Lethbridge on Wednesday September 8 at noon and will arrive in Coleman at 3 p.m. that same day.

In Coleman it will be met by Coleman Board of Trade and Blairmore Board of Trade and will stop immediately southwest of International triple where the travellers will be given a view of the scenic grandeur of the area and more important an excellent view of International mine with the miners coming off shift. Time Magazine will have its photographer along, a news reel camera man will also be taking "shots" enroute, Canadian Press will be represented and other news men will be in the party. The rich coal fields of the Crows Nest Pass is one of the talking points in constructing the highway through the southern part of the provinces which are rich in natural resources.

A light lunch is to be served the visitors while here, the Grand Union being assigned the task of catering to the party.

Possibly three of the local Board members might join the party here or at Cranbrook Thursday morning and continue with the travellers through to Nelson.

It will be an ideal trip for any citizen interested in the movement of a Trans-Canada Highway to make, whether he belongs to the local Board or not. Stops will be made enroute and the party banqueted at various cities. In addition inspection will be made of the large West Kootenay Power Plants and the Trail Smelter and Chemical plants.

At Nelson the caravan from the east will converge with the caravan from the west and the convention will start Friday morning. Principal speaker will be Federal Cabinet Minister James Gardiner.

Coleman Board of Trade desires the citizens of Coleman to show their interest in the movement for a modern highway through this area by converging on main street at approximately 3 p.m. Wednesday and give the visitors a rousing reception.

Dec. 31 Deadline Not Certain States Principal Hoyle

In a statement to The Journal on Tuesday morning Principal David Hoyle revealed that parents of children of starting school age should register their children with him immediately if it is planned that they attend Central school.

Children who will be six years of age on or before December 31 are eligible to register.

Last June in response to an advertisement in the Journal the Board a number of parents registered their children for the Fall term. Should those be all the registrations Principal Hoyle stated that he would be able to maintain the Dec. 31 deadline. However should some parents have failed to register children at that time and should strangers have come to settle in Coleman then the picture might have changed and it is possible that the deadline may have to be extended.

"Registration of the children is no guarantee that they will automatically be accepted into classes. We will have to first determine how many children are starting school before we can definitely set an official deadline," stated Principal Hoyle.

Two Coleman men, Jim "Slim" Williams and Aloise Krywolt purchased the Modern Cafe building two weeks ago and plan on moving into their new premises next Monday where they will continue the tire repair business which Mr. Williams has operated personally on main street during the past three years.

Mr. Williams has built up his tire repair business tremendously and his main street quarters have been much overcrowded for a considerable period. Now that larger quarters have been secured it is planned to install larger and heavier equipment next spring to handle the giant tires which keep some of the large trucks in the Pass rolling.

In the meantime the equipment owned by Mr. Williams will be used until the new equipment is received and installed.

Air Transport

WHILE THE PEOPLE OF ALL NATIONS have not yet learned to live together in complete agreement, there are many signs that progress is being made toward the establishment of better international understanding and co-operation. Air transport, which links people of many countries by cutting down distance, which was in the past a barrier, and by bringing nations together geographically and in other ways, is a force which is contributing a great deal at this time to the building up of confidence and good will. The International Air Transport Association, which has seventy member companies, in forty countries, is now attempting to standardize air transport throughout the world and to establish high standards of safety, efficiency, speed and economy.

High Degree Of Uniformity

Member companies of the organization carry most of the world's air traffic over 500,000 miles of routes and employ more than half a million men and women. They give indirect employment to millions more. A recent article, telling of the work of the Association, says, in part, "In a world that speaks many languages, and uses many different systems of writing, law, currency and measurement, the International Air Transport Association is the airlines' answer to the imperative need for complete international understanding on all procedures, practices and devices used in their industry." As a result of their work, a high degree of uniformity in many matters has already been achieved.

Possible On Wider Scale

The interest of the Association in safety is demonstrated by the fact that there is exchange of information between the various companies on accidents and near-accidents, in the hope of increasing the safety of air travel throughout the world. The scope of the work which is being done, and the success with which efforts at establishing co-operation in matters related to air travel have been met, are encouraging signs for those who hope for lasting world peace. The many difficulties which must be overcome, and the many differences in practice between nations which must be brought to one standard, show that there are ways of bringing about agreement and understanding, and indicate that what is being achieved in the matter of air travel may well be possible on a much wider scale.

SAVE THAT CHICKEN FEATHER! IT MAY BECOME WIG, CUP OR AN ASH TRAY!

Dr. Bum Bill Bee—Bee venom and even honey may find important place in medical treatments.

By JAY RICHTER

Central Press Correspondent

Canadian research scientists—the quiet men who work and dream in obscure laboratories across the nation—are coming up with a host of new discoveries to make your life healthier, happier, and perhaps longer.

Their tools include everything from corn cobs and chicken feathers to repulsive rats and the ordinary honeybee. Take those chicken feathers, for example.

For several years, U.S. agriculture department researchers at Albany, Cal., have been fiddling around with feathers off and on, trying to make something useful of them once the chicken is plucked. Now, they are beginning to sight some practical possibilities.

Feather protein, they discovered recently, can be used in making sizing, adhesives, plastics, cold-water paints, plaster retarders and naks. Already, the fibre from feathers is being used commercially in the wigs you see on department store manikins, and in such commercial specialties as industrial filters. They are also used in making plastic pencils, drinking cups and ash trays.

Human beings now suffering a variety of ills may soon be helped toward recovery by the bee.

Don't Ignore Appetite

New evidence uncovered at the department's bee culture laboratory in Beltsville, Md., indicates that this versatile insect is a source of treatment for tuberculosis, arthritis, boils and cuts.

In test tube experiments, a substance from diseased bees has killed tubercular bacilli. There are strong signs that honey can be applied to wounds and cuts to kill bacteria, and to speed healing. Bee venom has helped some arthritis sufferers.

The notion has got around that appetite may be the best guide to the kind of food you should eat for a good diet. Now, come findings which indicate otherwise.

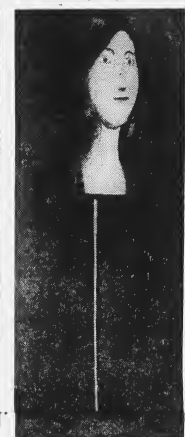

In experiments with rats, Dr. E. M. Scott of the University of Pittsburgh discovered that the rodents, left to pick and choose among foods, failed to select those containing essential protein. Some of the rats, with nutritious food right under their noses, almost starved.

into the engine of an alcohol-water mixture. Passes off cars, using less octane gas, could be equipped to do the same.

A single gallon of ethyl alcohol and nine gallons of low-grade gas, Hilbert says, combines to make 10 gallons of premium anti-knock fuel. Grain alcohol is still expensive for general use, but research men recently cut production costs three cents per gallon by improvement of conversion methods.

Economists also have been made in the development of new uses for farm products and by-products. For example, recent research at the Peoria laboratory shows that soybean protein can be used with other ingredients to make an "indestructible" ice cream which won't melt, run or lose its shape in warm weather.

Scientists at the laboratory, who occasionally whip up a batch for an afternoon snack, report that it's delicious.

They think the ice cream may be on the market soon, along with soybean iceings, candy, meringues, and tart.

They are also enthusiastic about an experimental glue they have extracted from soybeans. This superstick holds metal to metal, and seals envelopes so tightly it's impossible for busy-bodies to steam them open.

Missing Link

Progress by research men in plant breeding is bringing better quality foods to American tables. One example is the "Kennebec" potato which plant scientists consider the best seed developed anywhere.

Besides reproducing itself at an almost indecent rate, the Kennebec is large and a good "cooker". In a season or two, there will be enough seed for wide plantings.

Dr. Francis J. Stevenson, scientific research man at Beltsville, Md., worked 15 years to develop the Kennebec. His interest is personal as well as professional.

"I like potatoes in every form known to man," he declares. "As a matter of fact, I'd eat them three times a day if my wife would let me."

Another new vegetable is a unique onion called simply "California Red No. 1", the first successful onion hybrid. Actually, the onion is the result of a lucky find made many years ago.

One day in 1925 when he was in California, Dr. Henry A. Jones, now at Beltsville, stumbled upon a "malesteric" onion, a plant with only female characteristics.

It is the only single-seeded onion plant which ever has been found, though it meant nothing to Jones at the time who kept it only because it was a freak.

When hybrid corn came along, some scientists thought about developing a hybrid onion. But they were stymied by the fact that all onion plants they'd ever seen had both female and male characteristics—and a hybrid couldn't be developed without an all-female plant.

Dr. Jones' lucky find of almost a quarter-century later supplied the missing link for today's champion among onions, California Hybrid No. 1.

Pest Control Products Act Is Protective

OTTAWA.—During the past few years numerous new pesticides have been discovered which have been found valuable in controlling some agricultural pests. Unfortunately in some cases time has not yet permitted a thorough analysis and exhaustive study of their effect upon warm-blooded animals, including man, but it is known that some are poisonous and detrimental to health.

Two of such chemicals are Hept (Hexa ethyl-tetra phosphate) and Topp (Tetra ethyl-pyrophosphate). They are sufficiently poisonous to warm-blooded animals to warrant special precautions in handling, and in addition there is possibility of poisoning through skin absorption. While most people using these materials are accustomed to handling poisonous substances, accidents may happen if familiarity is permitted to breed contempt.

The Plant Products Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture which administers the Pest Control Products Act, is reluctant to register pesticides material under the Act—thus permitting general sale—if the material is detrimental to public health and to domestic animals even when used in accordance with directions. The Division therefore consults with scientists of the Department's Science Service and with specialists in other Government departments concerned with such matters.

If it is agreed that the new substance is sufficiently important as a pesticide to be offered for sale, registration under the Act may be granted. But special care is taken to restrict the quantity of the new toxicant to that required to do the job and to ensure that adequate warning is printed on the label of the preparation to safeguard the health and well-being of those who use it.

Supplies Arrived Nearly Century Late

PHILADELPHIA.—Supplies shipped from England aboard a cargo vessel in 1750 to the Colonial residents of Philadelphia finally have arrived.

They included such items as pewter plates, brass buttons, silver shoe buckles, locks of all sizes with keys to match, square nails, copper tea kettles, two-pronged forks and all sorts of funny looking pins.

The riches were part of the cargo of an early 18th century English vessel discovered by United States Army Engineers some weeks ago during dredging operations in the Delaware River. Contents of the ship were pulled ashore by a suction pipe.

EXHIBITION—Charlottetown exhibition of livestock and harness racing was officially opened by Viscount Alexander, governor-general of Canada, who enjoyed the racing following ceremony. A part of crowd watches a "start" from new starting gate. Premier of Prince Edward Island, J. Walter Jones, who attended, is an outstanding Holstein breeder.—S.N.S. Photo.

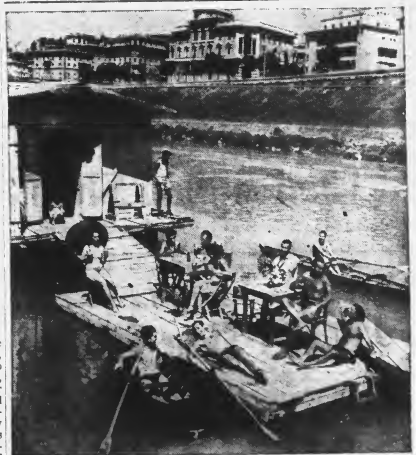

NO JINX HERE—Jinx Falkenburg McCrary, former model and film star and like her brother, a champion on the tennis courts, lived up to her name recently. She gave birth to an eight-pound boy on the calendar's No. 1 hoodoo — Friday the 13th.—S.N.S. Photo.

OLDEST DRIVER AT 18th ANNUAL PACING DERBY—seventeen thousand enthusiasts jammed the stand and grounds at New Hamburg, Ont., recently to witness the harness races. So heavy was the attendance at the races that Carl Katsamer, the club's secretary, declared the purse for next year's derby would be raised. Oldest active driver at the 18th annual Canadian Racing Derby was Dick Scott, 71, of Toronto, who is seen with Jean Woodward. He has been racing for 40 years.—S.N.S. Photo.

SAVES ELEVEN—An attractive airline stewardess, Rita Meyer, (above), of Kitchener, Ont., who "didn't have time to get nervous", is credited with preventing a major airline tragedy when she calmly led 11 passengers from a flaming Trans-Canada Airlines North Star to safety in Sydney, N.S. Five crew members also escaped when the big four-engined plane struck a 20-foot mound of earth and burst into flames after making a routine landing at Sydney airport. It was en route from Montreal to Prestwick, Scotland.—S.N.S. Photo.

ALL THE BENEFITS OF SEASHORE FOR EIGHT CENTS—Tiber river at Rome provides a cooling bathing place for Italians who haven't the time or the money to go to the seashore. For eight cents Romans can spend the entire day at the river, like some of these, enjoy spaghetti served on the spot.—S.N.S. Photo.

TOP NOTCH WRESTLING CARD SCHEDULED FOR BELLEVUE FRIDAY NIGHT

Another top-notch wrestling card is in store for Pass wrestling fans at Bellevue arena tomorrow (Friday) night. It is a re-match between Al "Murder" Mills and Lou Noman in the main event and Conick and Shologan in the preliminary.

Two weeks ago Mills and Noman met and the fans vociferously protested the referee's decision which saw Mills gain a win over the quieter and more popular Noman. It was an exceptionally colorful bout both men being fairly evenly matched. Mills is the better showman until Noman gets mad and then he takes command.

Shologan demanded a re-match with Conick. The latter had manhandled Shologan to the point where the latter had to be carried from the ring when it was found his injury was sufficient to prohibit him from continuing the bout further. This time it is going to be different Shologan has advised the bout's sponsors.

Advance ticket sales can be had at any one of the Pass Pharmacies.

THEATRE NOTESGREAT ANIMAL FILM DUE

Paramount's "Shaggy", a notable addition to those beloved animal films of which moviegoers never tire, arrives next Saturday at the Orpheum theatre. Two endearing new stars are said to emerge from the film; Shaggy, a beguiling dog destined to join Lassie and Rin Tin Tin in the hearts of moviegoers, and eleven-year old George Nokes, tousled-headed child actor.

Filmed in color against the rugged grandeur of the West, "Shaggy" matches its visible beauty with its warmly human story of devotion between a boy and his dog, a devotion in which either would sacrifice his life for the other. "Shaggy" also delves into the problem of a boy's resentment of the intrusion of a stepmother into his formerly happy world. There's adventure in "Shaggy", too, topped by a climatic death struggle between the dog and a mountain lion.

PARAMOUNT'S "ROAD TO RIO" STARS CROSBY, HOPE, LAMOUR

Those two irrepressible, irresistible kins of laughter—Bing Crosby and Bob Hope—are headed this way in their newest Paramount comedy, "Road to Rio", which co-stars them with Dorothy Lamour and which arrives Saturday at the Bellevue theatre.

"Road to Rio", as the title clearly indicates, has the boys invading South American with strictly North American gags and antics. According to advance reports it is the funniest of all the "Road" pictures, which ought to make it positively uproarious. Lending assistance to that end are Gale Sondergaard, Frank Faylen, the Wierie Bros., and the Andrews Sisters.

WEDDINGS

BIEGUN - CIZEK

St. Anne's Parish church, Blairmore, was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday, July 24, when Evelyn, youngest daughter of Mrs. E. Cizek, of Frank, and the late Frank Cizek, became the bride of Joseph, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Biegun, of Coleman. Rev. Father Harrington officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle Mr. Frank Sterba, was beautifully gowned in white nylon marquisette with matching elbow length gloves. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of American Beauty roses.

Miss Emma Kubik, of Blairmore, was best maid and chose a gown of blue sheer and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Attending the groom was Mr. Mike Hudz, of Coleman.

Receiving with the bridal couple were the bride's mother who wore a black flowered afternoon dress with a corsage of roses, and the groom's mother who chose a brown dressmaker's suit with a corsage of roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother for relatives and close friends.

The toast to "The Bride" was proposed by Mr. Hudz and ably responded to by the groom.

The happy young couple left on a honeymoon to be spent at Great Falls and other U. S. cities. For traveling the bride wore a brown tailored suit with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Upon their return the newly weds will take up residence at Coleman where the groom is employed.

Queer Reactions To First Broadcasts

NEW YORK.—What radio broadcasting broke upon a startled world the wonder and amazement with which the marvelous new invention was received was not unaccompanied by superstitions and dread says the Wall Street Journal. An examination of the early history of pioneer radio stations reveal some amazing human reactions.

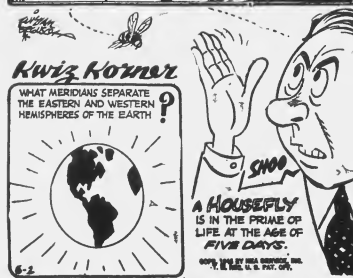

"I never had lightning knock bricks off my chimney before," an early set-owner complained to the radio station. "What do you think I am, anyway?" While another man's wife heard queer noises in the fireplace, and had "hysterics". One woman said the radio waves played over her bed springs and kept her from going to sleep. In fear and trembling, she sat up 40 hours.

The prize story, however, concerned a widow, who was visited by a ghost of her late husband while she listened to the radio. She hoped he would return again, but when he did not, she wrote the radio station: "He didn't possess any aptitude in mechanical matters when he was living—Do you suppose he could have gotten on the wrong wave and been carried somewhere else?"

It took Abraham Lincoln only two minutes and 15 seconds to deliver the Gettysburg address.

SHEEP FEEDING RACK

WASTE of feed through tramping when feeding sheep can be easily avoided by using a well designed feeding rack. The accompanying drawing describes a sheep feeding rack of the portable type which provides a rack for hay and trough for grain. It may be built any convenient length, but units 12 to 16 feet long are most satisfactory.

Since the bottom of the rack is raised 15 inches off the floor there is little danger of hay droppings getting into the wool of the animals. This design also makes it unnecessary for the sheep to get their heads through the spaces between the slats of the rack, instead the tendency is for the animals to pull the hay from the rack.

The legs are made of 2x4 inch scantlings as are also the cross members supporting the troughs and hay rack. The bottom of the rack is supported on two pieces of 2 by 6 inch plank, which, in turn, rest on the cross members. If good material is used and all joints are well nailed this will make a strong rack which will give good service for a long time.

This simple sheep feeder is not difficult to construct and will do its job for a long time because of rugged design.

Ample Sport For Hunters In New Law To Safeguard Birds

OTTAWA.—Annual rules aimed at giving hunters their fun—the ducks and geese a fighting chance—have been announced by the government.

The 8,000-word regulations, the result of meticulous agreement with the provinces and the United States, detail dates, bag limits and firearm restrictions.

They are the official code of honor for the hundreds of canvas-coated Canadians who take to the wide-open spaces each Autumn in search of migratory birds.

In general, the new rules leave open-season dates and bag limits pretty much as they were last year, said Dr. H. F. Lewis of the Dominion Wildlife Service.

The daily limit for ducks in Eastern Canada is seven, compared with eight in the West. The Eastern season averages about a month during October and November, while Western Canada's season in some areas gets under way early in September.

For the first time, an all-Canada "ceiling" of three-shells-a-loading has been put into force. But only Saskatchewan is going that far. In other provinces—at the request of provincial authorities—the "ceiling" is one or two shells at a loading.

Must Fix Guns

Means that automatic and pump guns must be plugged or altered in some way so that they hold only the number of shells permitted by the individual province.

Although most rules are substantially the same as last year's, Dr.

Lewis said in an interview, "there are changes in details in most parts of the country."

"Hunters should study the regulations for their particular districts to be up to date on these changes."

Another new rule is the reduction from 15 to 10 in the "possession limit" for geese of all kinds. This includes geese "in hand", in lockers, automobiles and hunting-camps. It does not apply in the Yukon and Northwest Territories, where geese are an important part of the natives' food supply.

Seasons and limits have been lengthened a bit in British Columbia and Alberta, where the duck population is somewhat better than in the other provinces. There are special new restrictions for the James Bay district, limiting the areas where non-residents may hunt.

Citation For World's Oldest Carrier Pigeon

WASHINGTON.—Kaiser, oldest carrier pigeon in the world, a veteran of two world wars, is getting a gold leg band and a citation. The 30-year-old bird is retired now, but during the Second World War he helped train other carrier pigeons, some of them his great-great-grandchildren.

He's still wearing the aluminum leg band with the seal of the German imperial crown which Kaiser Wilhelm's army put on him in the First World War.

Hatched at Cologne, Germany, in February, 1917, he was captured in the Meuse offensive and turned over to the signal corps as a prisoner of war. He's outlived more than a dozen wives.

Edible Oil Fields

Altona, Manitoba, Is The Leading Centre In Sunflower Growing

(By R. D. Magladry, in C-L Oval)

SUCH varied items as a bottle of medicine, a can of paint, or a pound of shortening that housewives are likely to bring home from shopping tours may seem to have little relation to a field of bright yellow sunflowers. But there's a definite relationship, particularly to the fields in the Red River Valley of Manitoba, where more and more farmers are making sunflowers their chief crop.

For Canadian-grown sunflowers are coming to play a more and more important role in the goods we use and the food we eat. From sunflower seed comes rich, edible vegetable oil used in the production of soap, paint, varnish and certain medicines, as well as bread, pastries, lard substitutes, salad dressing and other foods.

The leading centre in sunflower growing is the town of Altona, Manitoba, 90 miles southwest of Winnipeg. This will be the third year of production for Altona. Residents of this little town of 1,200 people and surrounding communities have built their own processing plant which turns out 80,000 pounds of oil a week. When the Dominion Government encouraged farmers to grow more sunflowers, residents of Altona and district raised $180,000 in share capital and government-secured bonds among themselves for the project.

Importance of sunflowers to food supplies has been increased by the drop of lard production in Canada during recent years. In 1944, 120 million pounds were manufactured while in 1946 production had dropped to a mere 45 million.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture is behind this scheme to supply the country with more vegetable oil. Previously, Canada had imported most of her oil from Argentina where more than 1,000,000 acres of the plants are grown yearly. Before the war, not a single acre of sunflowers for oil was planted in Canada. Now, rich, edible oil flows from the Altona plant 24 hours a day into waiting railway tank cars.

Sunflowers are seeded in the first or second week of May and harvested toward the end of September. Harvesting is done by ordinary grain combine.

The elevator at the Altona plant has a capacity of 1,000,000 pounds of seeds and dries them at a rate of 6,000 pounds an hour. After leaving the trucks, the seeds are carried to the top of the elevator by an endless belt of small cups. At the top the cups dump the seeds onto a conveyor belt which distributes them to the various storage bins.

During processing the seeds are subjected to 240 degrees F. in the cooker. Oil is extracted from them here and is forced by steam pressure through filter presses. These consist of 32 separate plates of specially woven canvas which remove all seed particles. Then the oil flows into cone-shaped outdoor tanks to await shipment.

Great care is taken to maintain the purity of the oil. A chemist checks its progress at all stages until the finished product flows clear and smooth into the storage tanks.

It is estimated that Canadians could use up to 50,000,000 pounds of vegetable oil a year. Production in Canada is only a fraction of that figure as yet, but the Altona venture is a step in the right direction.

Princess Margaret Receives Legacy

BALMORAL, Scotland.—Princess Margaret became the envy of "teen-ager" girls throughout the world when she celebrated her 18th birthday. This means she can now have a house of her own and a lady-in-waiting. She also comes into a $100,000 legacy.

With her "coming of age", King George's vivacious, strong-willed younger daughter can decide just about everything for herself except the question of marriage. Her father still has the final say in that and his answer reportedly is "no".

As she ran downstairs to open her birthday presents, among the young persons waiting to greet her was the Marquess of Blandford, 22, reported by No. 1 on her long list of eligible bachelors.

Her coming of age brings her a $100,000 legacy left by Mrs. Margaret Grenville, a personal friend of Queen Elizabeth's. She has no personal income, however, so the King still has considerable control over her purse strings.

Excuse Was Good Enough For Judge

LONDON, Ont.—The way it is done "back home" saved Donald McCartney in court. A recent arrival from Scotland, McCartney was charged with operating an automobile without a permit. He said he had just bought the car and explained that in Scotland a driver was allowed 48 hours to buy a licence. The charge was withdrawn.

WHITE HOUSE MISTRESS

Harriet Lane, President Madison's niece, his sister's daughter, was mistress of the White House during his term of office. Orphaned when she nine years old, Miss Lane lived thereafter with her uncle—a bachelor. She also was with Madison in his career abroad.

FREAK PULLET—John Dunlop, a young poultryman of Wales, Ontario, has a freak New Hampshire pullet with two vents and two extra legs protruding from the rear. He is shown holding the bird in the palm of his hand. The pullet runs with a brood of ducklings and, from all appearances, is their mistress. Quite a bustle is stirred up when the ducklings take to the pond.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

ATTENTION

The power of applying attention, steady and undisturbed, to a single object, is the sure mark of a superior genius.—Cheslerfield.

No abilities, however splendid, can command success without intense labor and persevering application.—A. F. Stewart.

Other things may be seized with might, or purchased with money, but knowledge is to be gained only with study.—Johnson.

Few things are impracticable in themselves; and it is for want of application, rather than of means, that men fail of success.—Rochefoucauld.

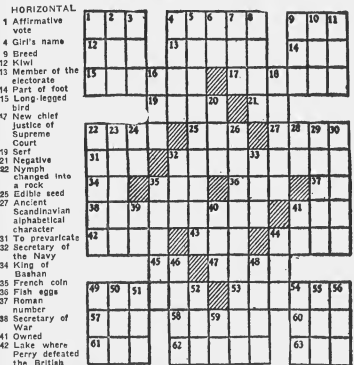

The devotion of thought to an honest achievement makes the achievement possible.—Mary Baker Eddy.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

DATE WITH A LADY

By WILL SHED

JOHN opened her bedroom door and stood there watching her fix her hair. He shuffled his feet nervously, trying to get up enough nerve to tell her.

"Mary," he stammered. She looked around at him curiously, her hair-brush paused in mid-stroke.

"What is it, John?" She wrinkled her brow in worried concern. "You haven't been acting right all evening. Is there something that I can do?"

John stared at the ceiling as though he had never seen it before, spending half a minute examining the chandelier. Finally he looked at her almost pleadingly.

"Yes, there is. I have something to tell you, but turn the other way and go on with your hair."

Mary turned back to the mirror, and started running the brush over her sleek auburn hair again. John examined the ceiling again, and finally looked at the back of her dressing gown.

"Mary," he said, "I have something to tell you, as I said, and I don't know quite how to put it. You know as well as I that our marriage hasn't been going too well these last few months. I don't know what's wrong with us. Maybe just the monotony."

She glanced at his reflection in the mirror, and watched him nervously scraping his right shoe back and forth across the rug. He didn't go on at once, so she said, "Yes, I know it hasn't been going too well."

He glanced at the reflection of her face in the mirror, then watched her back again.

He shifted nervously for a minute. "Well, whatever the cause, it just isn't right. What I'm trying to say is that this evening I have a date... a date with a lady I know."

Mary didn't turn around. She sat watching his reflection in the mirror. Her shoulders sagged a little as she sat with her hands on the dressing table top. "Is she anyone I know?" she asked.

"Yes," he stammered, "I'm afraid she is. I shan't tell you who, but you know her pretty well."

"It's been a long time since you've gone out with another woman, hasn't it, John?" she asked wearily.

He shuffled his feet nervously again. "Yes it has been. I haven't had a date for three years... since before we were married. I didn't realize how long it had been. I felt that I had better tell you. You are my wife, and I don't see why I should keep a thing like this secret."

Mary slowly ran the comb over her hair as she answered. "I think it was very kind of you to tell me, you see, I had the same problem... I have a date tonight too."

He stopped shuffling his feet and stared at her. "You have a date tonight too?" Then he seemed to sag a little. "I hope you'll have a wonderful time."

She smiled at herself in the mirror. "I'm sure I will. You see, he's everything I admire in a man. He's handsome, he's kind, he's a gentleman, her eyes seemed to sparkle, 'he's wonderful!'"

John turned away, and walked through the door into his dressing room. He got out his tuxedo, and cuffs out and his shirt, socks, and spread it on the bed. After a shower he slowly got dressed. His date wasn't until eight-thirty.

When he was dressed, he stopped by Mary's room to say goodnight.

She had on her white evening dress, the one that she looked so beautiful in. She stopped trying to get her left earring to stay on and smiled at him. "Where are you supposed to meet her, John?"

He tried to smile back, but was not very successful. "I'm meeting her in front of the bank at eight-thirty," he said. He glanced at himself in her mirror, and straightened his black tie.

"Where are you taking her?" she asked.

He looked down at the smoothness of the top of her head. "I don't know yet. I think a thing like that should be decided on the spur of the moment, don't you?"

"Yes, I guess it is more romantic," she said. "Oh, by the way, will you call me a taxi on your way out?"

He phoned the cab-stand around the corner, then went out and got in his convertible coupe. It would be a nice night for a drive in the country, so he put down the top before he started.

At eight-thirty he was standing in front of the bank and scuffing his shoe back and forth on the sidewalk as he waited for his date. Every few minutes he would glance up at the clock in front of the bank, then up the street toward the main part of town.

At eight-thirty-five he saw a figure approaching down the sidewalk. As she got closer he saw that it was his date... the girl he had been waiting for. The girl might well be the one that he would spend the rest of his life with.

As she came up he tipped his top hat in a gallant manner and said, smilingly, "I've been waiting for you, but then I would wait forever for you."

She smiled at him, and he could see that she loved him as much as he loved her. He opened the door of his coupe, and he and Mary got in and drove away to an evening of romance.

SELECTED RECIPES

CASSEROLE OF RICE AND MEAT

2 cups chopped, cooked meat
1/2 cup onion juice
1/2 teaspoon onion juice
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 egg
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
4 cups cooked rice

Season the meat, mix with crumbs and beaten egg, and add meat stock to make mixture pack easily. Line a greased mold, or baking pan, with 2 or 3 cups rice. Pack rice well and fill with meat, cover with the remainder of the rice, cover tightly and steam or bake about 45 minutes. Remove from mold. Serve with tomato sauce.

DUTCH APPLE PUDDING

Four ounces flour
1 teaspoonful baking powder
2 ounces margarine
Half an egg (fresh or dried)
4 apples
Sugar to taste
1/2 teaspoonful salt
Level teaspoonful ground cinnamon
1 gill household milk

Sieve flour, salt, sugar and baking powder into a basin, and rub in half the margarine. Beat egg, mix with milk, and add to the dry ingredients to make a soft dough. Spread this over a greased fireproof dish, so that it is about 1/2 inch thick.

Peel, core and cut apples into eighths. Press these into the dough, sharp edges downwards. Put the rest of the margarine in tiny pieces on top of the apples. Mix together about 2 ounces sugar according to taste, with the ground cinnamon and sprinkle over the top of the apples. Then bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes, or till the apples are tender. Serve with hot custard.

Canada And U.S. To Share Military Data

WASHINGTON.—James Forrestal, defense secretary, disclosed that the United States and Canada have agreed informally to exchange military information on a "broad general basis".

Forrestal recently returned from Ottawa where he conferred with Hon. Brooke Claxton, Canada's minister of national defence.

He did not specify what types of military information would be exchanged. But his aides indicated that data on potential war production would get a top priority.

They said officials of both countries are discussing methods of allocating specific industrial tasks to each nation in the event of war. The purpose of this would be to prevent unwarranted surpluses of some materials and unnecessary shortages of others.

Forrestal said it is "too early" to say whether the informal U.S.-Canadian agreement will lead to a formal pact.

Discussions on a U.S.-Canadian war plan are continuing through the United States-Canadian joint defence board.

Forrestal's aides said that U.S.-Canadian conferees will discuss plans for standardizing the calibers of rifles and artillery weapons of the two armies. At present, they have different calibers. American bullets do not fit Canadian weapons, and vice versa.

Defence officials said they were impressed by the "friendly, co-operative attitude" of the Canadians in the preliminary conferences. Among the subjects discussed, they said, was the status of U.S. air bases on New Zealand, now held under a 99-year lease.

There are a number of U.S. military bases in New Zealand, now held under a 99-year lease.

MISS NEW ZEALAND—A pretty green-eyed blonde is Mary Woolton, from Christchurch, New Zealand, who arrived in Toronto recently. She is the first Miss New Zealand ever selected. Unlike Canada and the U.S., where beauty queens are chosen for any and every occasion, Mary explains that in New Zealand they have never had this type of contest before. According to Miss New Zealand, contestants were selected on the basis of personality, cultural development and talent as well as beauty. And, she says, they didn't parade in bathing suits. All entrants had to raise at least $1,000 for the parcels-for-Britain fund. Miss Woolton was selected by the judges and won a trip to England as her prize. She is returning to New Zealand via Canada.—S.N.S. Photo.

New Federal Labor Code Is Now Effective

OTTAWA.—The Canada Gazette carried official notice that the federal labor code, passed at the last session of parliament, became effective Sept. 1.

The code, revising machinery for handling disputes in industry under dominion jurisdiction, will control labor relations in such industries as railways, communications, shipping and other interprovincial activities.

The code will be administered by a 10-man Canada labor relations board, headed by Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor of the Alberta supreme court.

Besides setting up machinery for handling disputes in federally-controlled industry, the code also makes provision for transferring industries from provincial to federal jurisdiction where the provinces signify they want this done.

DEFICIT HAS BEEN GREATLY REDUCED

OTTAWA.—Canada's adverse trade balance with the United States dropped sharply during the first six months of this year when the value of the Dominion's foreign trade hit a new high, the bureau of statistics reports.

The adverse balance for the half-year period was $228,200,000 compared with $488,000,000 in the corresponding period last year.
